About Ventspils chamber music days

This series of chamber music days organized by Ventspils Music High School started in 2015, inviting Latvian musicians who were studying at European music universities at that time. The concerts were imbued with the enthusiasm and courage of young people. Over time, the festival has evolved, bringing together professionals, teachers and their chamber music partners. School students, especially the best of them, are also included in the programs. Chamber music days have become a place of creative expression for participants of concerts and master classes, teachers, students, graduates and their friends interested in music. They have become a platform that connects music enthusiasts.
